PASSING OF CHARLES SANGER.

LAST rites for Charles Sanger, native of Germany, who was 82 years on the 19th of January, this year, took place on Friday afternoon and as an attestation of sorrow and of the high esteem in which he was held in the community, funeral was one of the largest in many a day.

Charles Sanger was essentially a constructive and leading citizen of this section. He resided here for 64 years. By occupation he was a contractor and builder, an architect as well as an advisor to all who were interested in building. A long list of the finest dwellings of their day and still outstanding are to his credit, including the palatial Dauphin villa, "Mistletoe," original home of Paul Conrad and two nearby residential structures, Seaside Cottage No. 1 and 2. The villa originally built for LeBlanc, later the Dart place; the Matrangia villa, later L. M. Gex dwelling, (destroyed by fire) original buildings for St. Stanislaus college, and a long list of finest and more substantial buildings of their respective kind.

It was Chas. Sanger who gave Bay St. Louis its first waterworks system. It was he who conceived the idea of drilling a number of artesian wells, connecting the overflow with a series of mains and piping the water to residences and building places. Truly a pioneer. Mr. Sanger was of that mind and inclination standing for a force in upbuilding the community and although he is no longer in the flesh his memory will live and remain inseparably connected in the original building of during that period of transition from village to city.

THINGS THAT WEAR OUR PATIENCE

Waiting for—
Completion of O. S. T. Highway Shortcut.
Repair of decking Bay St. Louis bi-county bridge.
Early installing of gas for Bay St. Louis in time for this summer.
Building of a highway from Memphis to the Gulf Coast.

Added signs of civilization. Neshoba county Indians at Philadelphia going on a "strike" because the government saw fit to make a change of superintendent of reservation. This story gave Mississippi front page space in newspapers over the country.

Although the discovery comes like a belated letter, defense for Hauptmann now assert the body found and claimed to be that of Charles Lindbergh's is erroneous. The body found was four inches taller, decomposed more than would have been possible and embalmed. This is important discovery but comes rather late.

Senator Bilbo's black eye and Senator Long's sore hand had no connection whatever. We are assured by correspondents from Washington that broadcast the story the gentleman from Mississippi was in an auto wreck and the gentleman of many colored pajamas was the victim of an affliction similar to athlete's foot.

The candidate on the job at all times is the one with the big chance of re-election. People calling at the Capitol or elsewhere seldom wish to see members of the clerical force, regardless of ability or how cordial he may be. The same regards all places of business. People invariably wish to see the boss.

A vivid reminiscence of two weeks in Washington: Little-minded men running up and down marble corridors and pretending to be important.—Jackson News.

Don't have to go to Washington to see that. You see it home everyday, only we haven't the marble corridors.

Will Rogers is America's foremost and recognized humorist and his daily paragraph appearing in a number of newspapers is avidly looked for. However, Rogers would write equally good stuff without circumventing the country by air plane at least once a week. A correspondent asks it is necessary to be 'up in the air' all the time. The aforesaid correspondent is short of something to criticize.

Already New Orleans has many people within its gates for the Mardi Gras and to all appearances this season is going to prove a big one for hotels, taxi cabs, places of resort and for the city in general. This is good for our neighbor. It has much to offer the tourist as truly America's Most Interesting City and we hope many who have not been privileged to visit this city of so much charm and hospitality will get there this season. It is the dream of many to some day be able to visit N'Orleans.

Several sales of realty within the city are reported during the past ten days, serving as a sign of awakening and that we are on the eve of a come back. The Echo has always contended that intrinsic value of realty, improved and otherwise, never depreciated; that the market values were dormant but would in time come back. It appears, it signs are significant the summer will be a season of revival and establishment of permanent values and "business as usual again." At least, this is what we hope for.

IN PREPARATION OF THE SUMMER SEASON

OUR summer season on the Mississippi Gulf Coast is not far in the offing. That is, the time to make ready for that period of activity is well at hand. Already there are signs that tell. Prospective summer residents are inquiring for places and while visiting for week-ends or Sunday 'look around' for something that might attract their fancy and suit their wants.

The complaint has frequently been made that only too often dwellings are offered for rent that have no appeal and certainly no one in any wise substantially fixed and able to rent a home here, regardless how small or unpretentious it may be, is not going to leave a home of comfort in the big city to 'put up' with a house lacking many conveniences to say nothing of comforts. The idea that people are willing to come to the coast and seashore section to camp, as the term goes, is erroneous.

They come here to enjoy our salt water bathing, gulf breezes and to escape from the torrid heat of the city; they come here to enjoy motor-ing, boating and all the pleasures we have to offer, but at no time and under no circumstances do we think they would come here to occupy places of abode not worthy of occupancy. It is for that reason many visit here and then go elsewhere.

It behooves every property owner to put their places in the pink of condition. Property painted, clean, full sanitary equipment, screened and, if furnished, properly so. Too many places of abode are offered for rent where weeds surround the place and the front gate is off the hinges! A properly kept place is a sound investment. It makes for better appearances and adds to the attractiveness of the town. It serves to many purposes to all concerned. It is now time to clean-up, repair, repaint and replenish with modern furniture. That old side-board, on the back porch; the chairs with cane bottoms in need of repair, the wooden beds with mattresses that have become "caked" with age, the oil stove, that fails to burn and the ninety-nine other ills that causes many a place not to rent promptly and at proper price is all too apparent to every body but the owner.

Superintendent W. F. Bond of the Department of Education in speaking of the value of Parent-Teacher organizations in a recent statement said: "I do not believe a school can do its best work without help. The Parent-Teachers Associations of Mississippi have been the most effective help we have had in our efforts to carry the advantages of a good school within the reach of every child of Mississippi. The children will be better served if parents and teachers will meet and discuss what is best for the school once a month, or at least once every six weeks."

MUST BE MORE THAN A ROUTINE WORKER

THE ECHO recently carried a feature news story from Washington wherein it was stated Senator Bilbo had given out the statement he would remain silent one solid year in the halls of Congress as a member of the Senate.

While we voted and privately supported Mr. Bilbo during his senatorial candidacy, we rise to ask, "How Come?" Our Senator is elected for a full term of six years, to be paid for that time and if he is going to keep his silence for the time indicated he will short measure his constituents one year. Receiving pay for six and working for five.

It seems to have been a sort of pre-election pledge by Mr. Bilbo, that if elected he would raise as much hell as Huey Long—if not more. We remember that statement.

Of course we do not wish him to raise as much hell as the gentleman from Louisiana. It would be far from fitting. And Mr. Bilbo was not elected for that purpose. Far be it from that.

But, hoping he has been misquoted, he may render double service not only in administering to the work as it comes to his office, but in the course of events he may rise to his feet, take the floor, and his oratory heard so well and to advantage during his memorable campaign during 1934, when he delivered from seven to nine speeches a day, break his silence and let his voice loose in silencing others who are failing to do what Mr. Bilbo would do for his people, his State, his country.

A tentative plan to reduce all Mississippi business and residential telephone rates 15 per cent, effective March 15, was agreed upon by the Mississippi Railroad Commission at their recent February meeting. The Commission decided to withhold its formal reduction order until its March meeting in order to draw up the facts in the face. The Southern Bell Telephone has pending a plan for "revisions" and "adjustments" in existing rates which may be compromised, it is stated.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISEMENT

THE Federal Home Loan Bank Board has recommended newspaper advertising to federal savings and loan associations as the best means of laying their plans before the public. A series of advertisements has been prepared by expert writers to aid associations to write and prepare their own advertising. George Dock, Jr., public relations advisor for the Board, says:

"The supremacy of newspaper advertising in giving the public the facts about any local product or service is recognized in every field of merchandising. Any federal association which intends to capitalize the advantages which it offers, can safely consider newspaper advertising an efficient way to assist thrifty people in the protection of their savings, and to help borrowers to secure economical financing for their homes. A small advertisement, featuring insurance, brought 600 replies and $14,000 in share subscriptions within a week to one association."

MERELY THEORETICAL

By GEORGE E. SCHILLING

THE NEW CURRICULUM

EDUCATION is expensive. A school system costs a great deal of money, or its equivalent, and a good school costs a great deal more than a poor school needs to cost. The kind of schools we shall have in the future will depend far more on our economic and social organization than on the working out of plans now being discussed in educational circles in Mississippi. Good teachers are of the very greatest importance, but the best possible teachers will be enormously handicapped unless they are properly supported. Two widely divergent plans are under consideration at present each advocated by very powerful groups.

The National Education Association is looking forward to an idealistic system based on three main considerations: First, the United States is capable of producing enormous wealth. Our resources are so great that we do not need to be hampered by considerations of economy. Second, the advance of technology reduces the demand for labor to such an extent that gainful labor by adolescents is no longer necessary, and the schools must provide for all young people until they reach the age of twenty. Third, children vary widely and these individual differences must be provided for. The child must be given something to learn that he can master. The school must be fitted to the child, to all the children—not the children to the school.

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, President of the University of Chicago, outlines a scheme towards which he thinks we are progressing, in spite of the "collapse" of public education in some western and southern states. It may be described technically as a 6-4-4-3 plan of organization. That means that the primary school will complete its work in six years. After it will come a new kind of a preparatory school, which he thinks we may as well call a high school. It corresponds very nearly to the present junior high school. This pupil will enter upon one of two courses of study, the one cultural, the other technical. These the student will leave at about the age of twenty, when he is ready to go to work, and most students will regard the completion of one of these courses of study as the completion of formal education.

These schools, including the colleges and technical schools, will be local in the same way our high schools are now local institutions. That is, they will be scattered around so that most students can live at home. (Make an exception there for some of the rural districts in Mississippi.)

For selected students, that is students who have the ability and the desire to continue, there will be a further course of three years, given in our present larger colleges and universities, leading to the degrees of master of arts, or letters, or science, or to professional degrees.

Since all of these schools except the most advanced are supposed to include everybody, every educator will understand that they must provide a great variety of work. All students cannot master geometry, any more than they can all play good football, or the violin. We cannot afford to neglect trigonometry, physics, psychology, or even Latin, but we shall also have to offer courses in selection and care of domestic animals, machine shop practice and electric wiring, besides nursing, needlework, housekeeping, commercial work and similar subjects, together with such English, mathematics and civics as students can master.

This sketch assumes that we shall have to continue to teach subjects. Of course we shall to teach them to the child, but it is difficult to see how we are going to teach him at all unless we teach him something which we might as well call a subject as anything else.

Another plan is being supported by powerful men, like the DuPonts, and great newspapers like the Chicago Tribune. It assumes the pessimistic idea that our present educational system is too expensive. The first objective is the abolishment of the free public high school as an unnecessarily expensive luxury for the poor. According to this school of thought, free education, if provided at all, is to be limited to the three R's, as it was a century ago. The upper classes that is to say those who have money, can send their children to private schools or academies. Do not underestimate this group. It is not very large, but it is very wealthy, very clever and very determined.

In guessing as to which of these two plans will be carried out, it may be well to recollect a bit of advice that used to be given to speculators on the stock market. "Never bet against the United States." As to the time, that is another matter. In 1917 General Pershing was told by European military experts that it took twenty years to build up an efficient general staff. He replied, and made good his reply, "It never took the United States twenty years to do anything yet."

HYSTERICAL SELLING

(Jackson News)

GET this story. It is good. A cigar firm down at Tampa, frantically trying to sell its goods in an era when most everybody smokes cigarettes—recently flooded the parcel post with its wares—accompanied by personal letters reading like this: "We are sending you via parcel post today $10 worth of our best cigars. Try them out. Remit if satisfied. In case you do not smoke, pass them along to some personal friend who does."

One of those letters, accompanied by a package of cigars, was sent to a doctor up in Michigan. He replied as follows:

Cigars received. I enclose payment in the form of two prescriptions worth $10 each—twice the sum you ask. It you do not need these prescriptions, pass them along to some friend who does.

The world is filled with people who are trying to sell you things you don't want, don't need, and can get along very well without.

SHARE WHOSE WEALTH?

(Miami Herald)

CERTAIN Georgians have fallen victims to the idiocies of Huey Long, or may, as the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, Baton Rouge, La., proposes to organize a chapter of the National Share-Our-Wealth Society. This follows the Kingfish's address before the Georgia house of representatives, enthusiastically applauded by the unintelligent.

The joker in the name of that society is the word "our" wealth but rather "your" wealth. If they had anything to share themselves they would not join the society. The unsuccessful naturally want to take from those who have, but do not intend to give up anything themselves. If they were sincere in sharing "our wealth," they could do so very easily without organizing. There are ample places, individuals, institutions where their money would be welcome.

If the failures should grab the resources of the thrifty workers and fortunate investors, they would not keep the wealth very long. It would soon be back in the possession of the wise and clever. If you are asked to become affiliated with any such nonsensical body to share "our wealth," just ask "whose" wealth is our wealth? And who gets the membership fee?

PAT REPORTS

(Jackson News)

THE Daily News asked its favorite super-statesman, Pat V. James, to journey down into Louisiana and find out what was doing.

Pat did, and here is what he writes—a much better story than any Louisiana newspaper has yet published on the subject:

"I'm back from Louisiana. Never for a mere moment was I hot and bothered. I succeeded in finding out what you asked me to find.

"I found that the poor people—and they are awfully poor—do what Huey Long tells them to do.

"Huey made the legislature pass a law requiring all persons needing eye-glasses—we call 'em specs at Hot Coffee—must buy 'em from duly registered and licensed eye-glass doctors.

"Only a few people in Louisiana are able to buy from regularly registered and duly licensed eye-glass doctors.

"The rest of the citizenry is going without eye-glasses—speacles—and don't know what they are doing or how they are voting.

"And that, you must concede, is a very good report on what is going on in Louisiana."

CARNIVAL DANCE TO BE HELD AT GYM MARDI GRAS

Senior Class Cooperates with Parents' Association for Annual Event

The annual Carnival dance will be held Mardi Gras Day, March 5, in the college gymnasium as has been the custom for the past ten years.

As in former years the Senior Class will sponsor the dance in cooperation with the Parents' Association under the efficient chairmanship of Mrs. Edward Carrere. Members of the Parents' Association will act as chaperones for the evening.

The first record available regarding the holding of the Carnival dances is taken from the files of the Sea Coast Echo. The dance was held in the boys dining hall for the lack of a larger hall. Then for a few years the entertainment committee obtained the W. O. W. Hall. For the past ten years or more the dance has been held in the College gym.

Charley Flink and Percy Stakelum are the Seniors in charge of the dance. They announce that the subscriptions to the affair are coming along nicely. Mrs. Carrere has obtained Bllessey's orchestra for the occasion. All the members of the Senior Class are on the decoration committee.

JAMES BARTON, brought to Hollywood by Radio after his appearance in "Tobacco Road," has complete his first film, "Captain Hurricane," taken from Sara Ware Bassett's novel, "The Taming of Zenas Henry." It was given a favorable reception by a large preview audience.

To the delight of some and the horror of others, it is rumored that another cycle of jail and crime pictures is in the making, conforming, of course, to the new clean-up order of the day. Several scenarios, written by inmates of penitentiaries, are being seriously considered.

Little Freddie Bartholomew, who did so excellently in "David Copperfield" will play the part of Greta Garbo's son in his next picture, "Anna Karenina," which Metro plans to produce.

Richard Day, to whom is entrusted the designing of settings and backgrounds for all of Darryl Zanuck's Twentieth Century productions, is in England where he plans to make a study of the latest developments in scenic design and construction.

Aline MacMahon and Guy Kibbee have completed their latest for First National, "Wanderlust."

Edward G. Robinson will play the part of the Little Corporal in Warner Brothers version of "Napoleon." Bette Davis will portray the role of Empress Josephine.

Charles Boyer will be opposite Katherine Hepburn in her latest film, "Break of Hearts," in place of Frances Lederer, according to an announcement from RKO-Radio studios.

Kay Francis and George Brent are together in "The Goose and the Gander," recently completed by Warner Brothers.

J. Warren Kerrigan, well known to old-timers, will make his appearance on the screen in RKO-Radio's production of "The Informer." Mr. Kerrigan played his last important role in "The Covered Wagon," in 1923.

According to the latest reports, the University of Los Angeles is offering a course in studio make-up.

Buddy Rogers, well known orchestra leader and former screen actor, is reputed to be on his way back to Hollywood where one producer has offered him a contract for two pictures.

It is said that Fredric March is busy taking lessons to soften his decidedly American speech into something that suggests a British accent.

Mary Pickford has decided to abandon the field of acting for the field of production. She plans to begin work immediately after her present radio engagement ends.

Wallace Beery has sailed for England where he plans to "work." Just what, where and with whom he will work has not been announced as yet.

Stepin Fetchit, Negro screen comedian, is making a "visit to his public" to find out just what the "home folks" think of him.

Richard Arliss, who never accepts the assistance of doubles, no matter what activity his part calls for, has never emerged from a picture without an injury of some sort.

So realistic was the wolf-make-up that Henry Hull wore in a recent picture that his feminine lead became so frightened that she became hysterical. As a result the filming of that scene had to be postponed a full day.

STATE BOXING TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD AT GULFPORT MAR. 8-9

The first annual Mississippi High School boxing tournament will be held at the Gulfport Fair Grounds on March 8-9, according to information released by Coach Brewer of Gulfport High. Plans for the tournament were instituted several weeks ago and were favorably set by several of the State schools who have indicated that they will be represented.

The tournament will be divided into the following divisions: 65 pounds, 75 pounds, 85 pounds, 95 pounds, 105 pounds, 115 pounds, 125 pounds, 135 pounds, 145 pounds, 155 pounds, 165 pounds, 175 pounds and heavyweights.

Among the schools that have indicated that they will participate are: Kiln High, St. Stanislaus, Fernwood, Gulfcoast Military Academy, Gulfport, and possibly Meridian.

Each school will be allowed to enter two boys in each division but one boxer cannot participate in two weight classes.

Coaches of college boxing teams will be invited to act as officials in the tournament.

St. Stanislaus will be able to enter a representative in almost every division. Some doubt may arise as to the 155 pound class but at this writing almost every one seems to be in fine shape. With the amount of experience on the St. Stanislaus squad, the team should win the top honors.

CLASS A TOURNAMENT SET FOR GULFPORT THIS WEEK

Local Schools to Have Strong Entries

Now that most member schools have almost completed their regular schedule, Gulf Coast basketball teams are preparing for the annual Class A Regional tournament to be held at The Fair Grounds Gym in Gulfport Feb. 28-March 2.

All of the Class A high schools will be represented, with the exception of G. C. M. A., as well as many of the better Class B teams. Among the latter are Dedeaux, Sellers, and Stewart, all of whom are among the favorites to cop the title.

Probably the cream of the Class A crop are the local squads, St. Stanislaus and Bay High. Both of these have been defeated only once, the Rockaways bowing to Spring Hill early in the season. The Tigers lost to Orange Grove and were recently tied by Gulfport.

In last year's tournament the Rocks were put out in the quarter-final round by Dedeaux, who in turn lost to the Kiln Wildcats who went on to win the title. However, the Cats are not so ferocious this year and, while not to be disregarded, are not generally considered likely to repeat.

The drawings for the first round will be announced early next week, and actual playing will begin Friday. Arrangements will probably be made for transporting the student body to see all games played by the college, as was done last year, when a large body from Stanislaus saw the contests.

The girls' tournament will be held at the same time as the boys' and, while the Gulfport and Biloxi sextets are the favorites, the St. Joseph Academy aggregation will be the "dark horse" and should furnish strong opposition for Regional honors.

COLUMNIST OF ATLANTA JOURNAL WRITES WASHINGTON SKETCH ABOUT OUR OWN "PAT" HARRISON—SEEMS TO BE IN FOR LONG TIME

RALPH SMITH, one of the well known columnists in Washington, who writes for The Atlanta Journal, had this to say in one of his recent columns with reference to Senator Pat Harrison:

"Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, is neither the oldest nor youngest senator in point of years or service, yet he occupies the chairmanship of the senate's most important committee. He is chairman of the finance committee, and that, boys and girls, is a select body of twenty members that shape all revenue legislation considered by congress; the committee that writes the tariff bills, the income tax measures and all legislation that garners dollars for the exchequer. Thus, at this time, the finance committee is shouldered with the duty of considering the myriad bills that propose the payment of bonuses, pensions, other raids on the treasury, because all of them contain taxing clauses.

"But 'tisn't of the finance committee that I started to speak. It is of Senator Harrison. He came to the house, from Gulfport, in 1910—a callow youth of 29, and he has been in one or the other branches of the national legislature ever since. Just now, he is completing his third senatorial term, meaning that he has seen fifteen years' service in the upper house.

"I remember when Pat came to Congress, and I remember a story I wrote for The Journal shortly thereafter, predicting that he had just entered on a political career that would carry him onward and upward to the seats of the mighty in the senate. And since his election to the senate I have been patting myself on the back. He is now 54, and comes up for re-election in 1937 with every prospect of returning, in which case he will have served for four consecutive terms in the senate (six years each) by the time he is 62. Thus the chances seem good that Pat Harrison may establish a record of longevity in the senate, for at 62 he should be in his very prime, good for two additional terms—possibly three, six and possibly seven continuous terms, thirty-six or maybe forty-two years in the United States senate!

"Conceding his ability, which is great, and the sound judgment of his Mississippi constituents, Pat Harrison owes much of his political successes to his genial nature and consideration of others, albeit in heat of partisan debate in the senate or in a political campaign, you'd never suspect him of these admirable qualities.

"Just how gracious the Mississippian is you'll gather from a little incident in the senate wing of the Capitol, the other day. . . .

"In the senate wing, you know, all and sundry give way and kow tow to senators. The elevators, of which there are many, are subject solely to the caprices and whims of a senator. No matter whether a car full of passengers is going up, or coming down, if and when a senator gets aboard it goes the way he wants it to go. . . . And when a senator is aboard the operator dare not stop the car to let others on or off. . . . Thus, ordinary mortals frequently await elevators until their patience is taxed almost beyond endurance.

"So it was, the other day, in re the elevator serving the senate appropriations committee. One senator after another pre-empted the car, while common clay waited. Presently Harrison appeared, boarded the elevator, invited others to follow him, and then directed the operator to complete his regular run, taking on and letting off passengers as they desired. 'I'll take my chances with the rest of you, and what does a few seconds mean, anyhow,' he observed pleasantly.

"Well, it meant a whole lot to a bunch of anxious and excited newspaper reporters in a hurry to get out of the basement of the Capitol and to a telegraph wire, to tell the world about the row in the appropriations committee over the President's relief legislation."

CONGRESSIONAL SIDELIGHTS

By Congressman William M. Colmer

THE SUPREME COURT AND THE GOLD DECISION

LAST week the national spotlight was stolen from Congress by the Supreme Court with its 5-4 decision that the gold clause is constitutional.

Formerly, the average citizen had only a vague idea of the Supreme Court as the court of final appeal, handing down an occasional decree from its Olympian heights. Many a man on the street knows that one-time Presidential nominee (Republican) who opposed Wilson in 1916 Charles Evans Hughes was Chief Justice, but few could have named as many as two of his associates.

Recently, however, the Court has gained unwonted publicity through its decisions on the Scottsboro, the Tom Mooney, the oil, and especially, the gold clause cases. The pictures of its nine members have recently adorned the front page of many newspapers. Publicity has been given to their public lives, to their ages, for example, which range from Justice Brandeis, who was born in 1856, to Justice Roberts, who is only 60. The beautiful, block-long, gothic building, to which the Court is soon to move from its present cramped quarters in what was the original Senate Chamber in the old or center section of the Capitol, has also made visitors and dwellers on Capitol Hill Supreme Court conscious.

On Monday of last week a line began forming before the door of the Supreme Court Chamber at nine o'clock. By the time the doors opened it stretched out for a block. Attorney General Cummings and many other notables were present. Even at the White House the air was charged with expectancy, for this was the second important test of the New Deal. The first test, the oil case, had gone against the Administration.

The question involved was whether Congress had the right to devalue the dollar by lowering its gold content. To the man on the street the decision meant little, for a dollar would still be a dollar, but for bondholders, such as F. Eugene Nottz, who instituted the test suit, it would determine whether their gold bonds should be paid in Roosevelt dollars or in dollars of the former gold content, which dollars in gold would be equal to $1.69 in Roosevelt currency.

By a decision of five to four, the Supreme Court in effect swept away any government or private obligation to pay gold bonds in gold. The

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

1019 Broadway Street, New Orleans, La., Feb. 24, 1935. Editor-Sea Coast Echo:

I respectfully call your attention to article appearing in the New Orleans newspapers, namely N. O. Picayune and Item, under date of Feb. 21, 1935, headed:

$20,000,000.00 PARK PROJECT RIMMING LAKES FOR NEW ORLEANS.

The above embraces the Pearl River basin or Honey Island. This island embraces more than 35,000 acres alone and is on the boundary of Mississippi.

Honey Island has received prominent mention, from time to time, from lovers of nature, of Natural reputation. They have written of its unusual beauty and renown for trees of many kinds. It is traversed by many small streams that would lend themselves to the propagation of fish, to say nothing of the wild game, prevalent here, that is almost extinct, wild turkey, deer and squirrels and many other species of bird life.

The Pearl Rivers have been mentioned for development in the last year, if my memory serves me right. I believe that certain surveys have been made to make Pearl River navigable to both Louisiana and Mississippi and the development would go together. It would be possible to embrace several thousand acres of waste land, in Mississippi, now in Pearl River swamp, in this gigantic project.

The value of this development could not be estimated. It would bring thousands of tourists thru the Gulf Coast area and some of these would be attracted by the beauty and advantages of that area and would make it their homes. This project would prove more valuable to the Gulf Coast than it would to New Orleans or Louisiana as a whole.

Our National Government is now making appropriation of money and planning for several years of development to conserve our natural, National resources. The opportunity is here, why not take advantage of the opportunity?

We will pass along, to future posterity, a huge burden of debt, so why not make it less hard to bear by establishing some places of beauty in these waste spaces, and planting flowers along the trail.

This is a feasible proposition which can and should be put over, but requires co-operation of all agencies to do it. We have become a nation of Gypsies, in our love for the outdoor life. It would bring thousands of tourists thru the Gulf Coast area each year.

My only interest in this matter is to see the Gulf Coast developed and this is not prompted by any organization, whatever, but as a private individual.

Hope that you may give this some consideration and thanking you for same, I am,

Yours very truly,

C. GREER MOORE.

Temperance Essay Contest to Be Held In All High Schools

Senate Bill No. 341, Section 5, states that "the Superintendent of Education shall call upon all the members of the senior class in every high school and agricultural high school in the state, to write an original essay on the subject of the effects of the use of alcohol."

Has your school done this? It is the law!

The rules of the contest are as follows:

1. SUBJECT: "The effects of the use of intoxicating alcoholic liquor as a beverage."

2. JUDGES: The teachers of your school are to select the essay which in their opinion is the best.

3. The winning essay shall be submitted to the county superintendent of education to be judged along with the winning essay from each county by a committee named by the county superintendent of education.

4. The winning essay in the county is to be sent to the county superintendent to the State Superintendent of Education, to be judged along with the winning essay from each county by a committee of five citizens appointed by the State Superintendent of Education.

5. LENGTH: The essay must not contain over 500 words and when submitted to the county superintendent of education must be typewritten.

6. AWARDS: The writer of the winning essay in each county may be awarded $100.00 in cash by the majority opinion was delivered by Chief Justice Hughes, who was joined by Justice Stone, Brandeis, Roberts and Cardozo. Justices McReynolds, Van Devanter, Sutherland, and Butler dissented. Justice McReynolds, in delivering the minority opinion, said, "The constitution is gone."

In New York stocks jumped up, and cotton advanced a dollar a bale. In Washington smiles returned to the faces of the New Dealers.

LONG IN 1940 The dope, whether one believes it or not, is that Huey Long has his eye on the presidency in 1940 but intends to go into some of the primaries next year in order to "round out an organization."

Personal and General

MRS. C. M. WEEKS' BEAUTIFUL WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY PARTY.

OF the series of outstanding luncheon-bridge parties of the season since the holidays none were more delightful and claiming more attention than that given Friday afternoon, February 22, by Mrs. C. M. Weeks at "The Answer," where many of the elite assemble in various and numerous functions.

Mrs. Weeks' affair was noted not only for the pleasure afforded her guests but for the thought and attention represented, fully in keeping with George Washington's birthday as the theme. Little hatches of varied and bright colors served both as favors and place card holders, the latter held in position by a fastening of dainty ribbon. The centerpiece of the long luncheon table was appropriately a small cherry tree. Another pretty and original conceit was the serving of canapés in hatchet-shaped mold prior to the luncheon, accompanied by liquid refreshment.

Mrs. Weeks' party was compelling in charm, interesting throughout and forming a picture of potential loveliness.

Attending this beautiful and unforgettable function were:

Mrs. Francis J. Bopp, Mrs. John W. Bryan, Mrs. J. C. Buckley, Mrs. Edw. C. Carrere, Mrs. C. J. Aubert Chadwick, Mrs. Edmund F. Fahey, Mrs. G. E. Ferchaud, Mrs. H. C. Glover, Mrs. Cornelius Herlihy, Mrs. Leo E. Kenney, Mrs. J. W. Kidd, Mrs. Chas. G. Moreau, Mrs. Kenneth W. Pepperdene, Mrs. George E. Pitcher, Mrs. George R. Rea, Mrs. Ralph Rugan, Mrs. Theodore Robin, Mrs. Leo W. Seal, Mrs. Alvah P. Smith, Mrs. S. A. Power, Mrs. Sam George, Mrs. Scale of Greenville, Miss.

High scores of the afternoon were in the order named, Mrs. Chadwick, Mrs. Kenney, Mrs. Carrere. Cut prize, Mrs. Rugan.

CHAIRLADY OF CARNIVAL COURT COMMITTEE TO BE CONGRATULATED.

While everyone connected with the Bay St. Louis annual Carnival ball has worked in active co-operation, none has labored more indefatigably and with more success than Mrs. Marie Juden, as chairlady of the Court Committee, composed of one member.

Mrs. Juden was given carte blanche in her solicitations and selections for the court. To her was entrusted this big task and to her alone, with the superiority of the convent, was the secret of the identity of King and Queen lodged. It was she who secured the number of maids and dukes and to the financial side of this task she carried on alone.

It can well be said Mrs. Juden, although a busy woman, attended to every detail with a marked degree of satisfaction to all concerned. It was a labor of love and accomplishment quickly and to a finished consummation. This satisfaction alone should be her reward. But as the public-spirited citizen and general civic worker that she is, it was her pleasure to do so, not feeling in the least the arduous duty that devolved upon her as chairlady of the Court Committee.

Mrs. J. J. Grevenberg entertained the Tuesday Bridge Club at her home in Court street Tuesday afternoon. The usual delightful time by this coterie of bridge devotees was had.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Gex, Jr., with a party of friends attended the Carnival ball of the Atlantians in New Orleans Tuesday evening.

Others from Bay St. Louis Wednesday evening attending the Keweenaw Mystery Ball in New Orleans included Mrs. H. C. Glover and Mr. H. C. Glover, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Carrere, and daughter, Miss Louise Carrere, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Moreau and party from New Orleans, Mrs. G. E. Ferchaud, Mrs. J. C. Chadwick, Mrs. Hugh P. Burbank.

Attending the Ballet Russe at New Orleans Sunday evening from Bay St. Louis in the number were noted Mrs. George E. Fitcher, with friends and Mrs. L. E. Kenney along with a party of friends from that city. The press was justly lavish in its praises of this artistic and classical event.

One of the popular and most feted debutantes in New Orleans this season is Miss Peggy McGivney, accomplished and attractive young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McGivney, who own a summer home in Coleman avenue, Waveland. Miss McGivney was queen of the Bards of Bohemia and figured as maid in a number of courts of the various prominent Carnival balls.

county board of supervisors to go toward defraying the expenses of the winner at college. The winning essay in the state is to be published and will entitle the winner to reimbursement for all fees paid for one year at any state college.

7. Essays must be in the hands of the county supt. by March 16, and the winning essay from each county must reach Mr. Bond by April 1st.

This is to be an annual contest. If carried out by all parties concerned, it will mean one hundred dollars for some fine boy or girl to go to college, one from each county, and all fees paid in addition to this for the state winner.

Manuals containing information on the subject will be furnished to the teachers of each school by the State Department of Education.

HIGH SCHOOL PRESS AWARDS ANNOUNCED BAY ST. LOUIS WINS

Student Prints, Bay High School Paper, Receives Considerable Mention In Dec. Review by Quill and Scroll

Our Bay St. Louis High School monthly paper, The Student Prints, is quite modest and its editors and contributors unassuming. For this reason The Sea Coast Echo reproduces from the columns of the Jackson (Miss.) Daily News of recent date excerpts from an article headed "High School Press Awards Revealed—December Point Winners in State Contest Listed; Articles Printed." Our regret is that space forbids reproducing the entire article, however, here are some high spots.

New threats arose out of the December entries in the Mississippi High School Press Association journalism contests, with a large number of winners from school publications that have not been so conspicuous in the winning columns before.

The West Point Green Wave, the Natchez Echoes, the Bay St. Louis Student Prints and the Jackson Tiger Talks. All returned an unusual number of winning articles.

These contests, sponsored monthly are judged by Quill and Scroll, international society of high school journalists, with headquarters at Northwestern University. Details are handled by the executive secretary of the Mississippi High School Press group, and the winning articles are published monthly by the Jackson Daily News.

A sports story, written by a Bay St. Louis Student Prints reporter placed first in the news field. Mr. Edward J. Nell, in choosing Francis Nelson's story for first place, said: "— Swift— concise— full of information; a model news story."

Miss Bessie Givens is adviser of the staff.

The Bay High Tigers will play the old graduates of Bay High in a benefit game for sweaters, to be given to this year's letter men, on Friday, December 21 at 2 p. m. To climax the celebration, the "B" Club meeting, in the form of a supper dance, will be given at Uncle Charlie's Nite Club, Friday December 21.

Such former stars as Nolan Taconi, Nolan Lader, Dick Koch, Earl Raymond, J. V. Bontemps, Orest Laurent, Jerry Dickson, Leroy Nelson, Curtis Lader, Coy Lader, Ed Laroux and others will be seen in action again. Several weeks ago these men challenged '34 varsity team and Mr. Ingram accepted for them.

Several seniors of the '34 Varsity Squad will be playing the last game of their high school career. These seniors are, Joe Loiacano and Tyrell Maneri, backfield; Charles Kergosien and Laurie Ferchaud, tackles; Gordon Hillis, Leopold Parker and Francis Nelson, ends.

Mr. C. Craft, former Bay High coach, has been secured by the Old Grads to coach them. They have practiced daily and promise to open a full bag of new tricks against the '34 varsity.

A small admission price of ten cents for children, and fifteen cents for adults will be charged. The game will be played at S. C. stadium.

John McDonald, president of the "B" Club, appointed Ed Whitfield, Earl Raymond, Carl Coward, and

Interview Writing

"A friendly, informal description on a person of immediate interest to students about the school. An especially good selection and arrangement of quotations," commented the judges on the interview written by Francis Nelson, Bay St. Louis Student Prints, who also placed first with his news writing. Miss Bessie Givens is the adviser.

Mr. Taconi's Views

"Win your next game, add get warm water; lose, get ice water," said Mr. Taconi, amiable janitor of Bay High School. But he always has warm water waiting for the Tigers when they come home from a hard game. Mr. Tac, as he is known by the boys and girls of Bay High, has been working for the Central High for the past eight years. He thinks this year's football team is the best that Bay High has ever had.

Mr. Tac has seen stars come and go—stars such as Nolan Lader, Richard Koch, Earl Raymond, J. V. Bontemps and his own son, Nolan Taconi, who is quarterback this year on the S. T. C. eleven; but he thinks that William Smith, present varsity quarterback, is the best that the high school has ever developed.

Mr. Tac smokes a strong pipe, and thinks the modern boy should smoke a pipe instead of cigarettes, "because," he says, "the paper in a cigarette does a person more harm than the tobacco does." He does not approve of young girls and women smoking.

I am 60 years of age and I've been smoking a pipe since I was 12 years old. There's no reason why a boy shouldn't smoke a pipe from boyhood, said Mr. Tac as he sat on a box, leisurely talking to the boys who were questioning him.

As he warmed up to his subject Mr. Tac began gradually to open the doors of his vast store of personal experience. Further questions on the subject of pipe smoking brought out that Mr. Tac prefers Buzz tobacco to any other kind—a testimonial that any manufacturer would be glad to have. Why? "Because it's strong and I like my tobacco strong," Mr. Tac said.

Mr. Tac said he believes him, often, on warm spring days the aroma of his pipe drifts through the entire school building. We told him that we were going to write him up in the next issue of the "Student Prints."

He said, "You boys that hang around here and ask questions are big bums."

A tremendous increase in building is predicted by James A. Moffett, Federal Housing Administrator, who says "the depression is over, although the country does not know it."
